DOWN IT GOES... Master Sgt. Alfred B. Bergher, member of the Torrance National Guard Company, supervises the removal of a light standard at Torrance Park, helping the city and giving the men of Company E, 132nd Armored Engineer Bn., additional training.

National Guard Lends Hand at Torrance Park

Many visitors to the Torrance Park baseball diamond were surprised Sunday afternoon to see the playing field overrun by men and equipment of the California National Guard, Company E, 132nd Armored Engineer Battalion, of Torrance.

Although the company at the present time is nearly at full strength, it is able to take in a few qualified veteran non-commissioned officers with previous Army service. Those wishing to look into this should contact M/Sgt. John Gracia, at the Torrance Armory, 2505 Cabrillo Ave., between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The commanding officer, Capt. D. J. Horiander, had heard of the need for the equipment by the Torrance Recreation Department in removing several old light standards recently replaced by safer and newer metal poles.

In doing this the captain saw a dual need. One was that of saving the city the added expense and danger of the job, while another was that of giving his men practical experience with the heavy equipment stored at the Torrance Armory.

The detail under the guidance of M/Sgt. Alfred Bergher, had the poles out and the holes filled in time for the day's regular baseball game to proceed on time. Bergher, an assistant highway engineer with the state of California, has been in the company for two years and has risen from a Pfc. to master sergeant in this short period of time.

Married and with a son and daughter, Bergher served for seven years with the Army during World War II, seeing action in Africa and Italy. Bergher says that his reason for joining the guard is to keep up with the latest in Army training and to help in serving his country.
